GOV. EASLEY REAPPOINTS DURHAM TO WIRELESS 911 BOARD

RALEIGH – Gov. Mike Easley has reappointed Joe Durham of Raleigh to the North Carolina Wireless 911 Board.

Durham is deputy county manager for Wake County. He received his Bachelor's degree in urban and regional planning from East Carolina University.

The North Carolina Wireless 911 Board levies a monthly 911 service charge on each commercial mobile radio service connection, allocates money to Public Safety Answering Points and reports to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operation and the Revenue Laws Study Committee. The board has seven members, who serve four-year terms. The governor appoints two members.
